has been running smoothly, and there are no indications that our men have gone out or will do so soon. I have not seen any members of the Grievance Committee to-day and know nothing of what is transpiring at their headquarters." A long statement was issued to-day by President Ramsey, addressed to employes of the Wabash Raliroad Company and others interested, explaining his position in the present crisis. It is Said That He Will Seek Complete Vindication from His People.

Mr. John M. King, ex-Alderman from Jefferson Ward, it is stated, is going to run for a seat in that same body at the next election, a successful canvass to be taken and construed as a complete vindication of the charge on which he was arrested and has twice stood trial. Just which man Mr. King will oppose was arrested and has twice stood trial. Just which man Mr. King will oppose is not known.

While actually, in the eyes of the law, the mistrial of King, the failure of the welve men to agree, really amounts to nothing, it is certainly to be regarded as a victory for the accused, showing, as it does that there at least existed as trong doubt in the minds of the jury as to the guilt of the defendant. Along this same line it may be stated that the action of one jury rarely ever affects the action of another, and, therefore, the indefinite result of the tedious hearing should be taken as no criterion either one way or the other.

During the progress of the trial Messers. Carter and Meredith filed two bills of exception in behalf of King and against the ruling of the court on their pleas of abatement. This is important, as it signifies beyond the least shadow of a doubt that the famous case will be fought to the last ditch, concluding only with a decision from the Supreme-Court. It will be remembered from the reports of the trial that when the case was called the coursel for the defense moved to dismiss the charge of bribery against the defendant, filing two pless in abatement. The first set forth that the grand jury which found the indictment had on it one man, Mr. Dabayer Crosshaw, who was not logally a citizen of Richmond, and, therefore, the true bill was not valid. The other head that the proceedings were irregular because Mr. John Winston, the stenographer, was in the jury-com and heard iff of the proceedings, despite that he was not a member of the jury.

After hearing those pleas Judge Ingrain ruled both of them out, and the trial proceeded. It was while this was in progress that the attorneys filed their bills of exception, and these will go to the Supreme Court.

The street fair and carnival fever has bable that at the next meeting of the committee of citizens will appear to pre-

It is proposed to give a street fair of from Seventh to Fifteenth Streets on Hull and the inersecting streets, and, to accept propositions from Bostock or any other carnival managers for putting on good shows.

The idea is to give the fair in May or June, to run one week, and to offer independent attractions daily, such as a floral parade, a military parade, at trades parade, an oriental and civic parade. The merchants are to erect attractive booths in front of their places of business, and several bands of music are to be engaged for the week. Numbers of free shows are to be given, and the whole affair is to be a credit to Manchester, as well as an attraction to draw strangers to the city.

Several enthusiastic merchants were seen on the subject last night, and a member of the Council said he felt confident that the Citizens Committee would receive all the concessions mittee would receive all the concessions that they asked for.

The date of the fair has not been suggested, but it will probably be sometime in the latter part of May or the first of

CITY DEMOCRATIC COMMITTEE.

A meeting of the City Committee will be held in the Police Court this evening, at which time a chairman will be elected and plans for the spring campaign mapped out and discussed.

Elections for Council will come up in May, and the campaign promises to be a hot one.

There would be no need of a "police court or scandal." It was her-shall I say luck?-that her husband was not at home when one of the letters came, otherwise he might mistrust her and think she was corresponding with this man, whereas, if she had told him in the first place, a second letter would not have come. She should have enough confidence in him and he in her to tell him everything without "tears in her eyes and her finger in her mouth".

I saw last evening in your paper a request for a cure for asthma by "M.J." May'l send what I have a reason to believe is a cure? A gentleman, a cousin of my sister by marriage, told her it had cured him. Ho had had it so long that no one thought he could last much longer, as his general health was breaking down, and he himself thought he could not stand it a great while longer. When some one told him to use sunflower seed in whiskey, he did so and was cured. He had to use it for some little time, of course. My sister said he was looking the picture of health.

To one cupful of crushed sunflower seeds add a pint of whiskey, let stand for a few days, then take for an adult one tablespoonful four times a daymorning, noon, evening and at bedtime. In a short time the attacks were less frequent, also not so severe. After he considered himself nearly cured he reduced the number of doses to three, then to two, then to one per day, until cured.

I hope this will be of benefit to some poor sufferer.

I would meekly suggest that "M. J. D." and any like her, conscientious and painstaking while starving for some kind words of recognition and encouragement in their lifework, should not weaken themselves by one lota or self-pity or regret, but should summon every energy to look at things practically and make the next generation of women rise up and call them blessed. I fear the selfish husband's mother was one who did everything for him and never drilled him in doing anything for her or for anybody but himself, and that "M. J. D." is doing the same for the five children she so the same for the five children she so much prizes. If she has begun right, those five children, even now, are a crowd, finding delight in relieving her of burdens. They will be "good, honest, truthful men and women" without fall if she makes them work out their own salvation as they go along. They will be sides be studying for her comfort and amusement, and she, as queen of the household, will find time to plan for amusements and things to lighten the labors of all.

"M. J. D." will be surprised if she once begins to think along this line to see how quickly results will follow, and she will wonder how it came about that she will wonder how it came about that she laid down the sceptre in fear of defeat. She must be led by her faiths instead of her fears. She will have her innings when her new daughters tell her appreciatively how their husbands says: "You are tired, I know. Go and rest. Let me do this!" and take hold with a strong arm, making so light what seemed so heavy. "M. J. D." may think this fanciful. It is true to the letter, for the writer has BEEN THERE.
